Dear Umut,

Just a brief update to inform you about the incidence report. In all honesty we are having difficulties in finding an appropriate label for this incidence, but at least it is clear to us that it relates to inter-personal relations at the work-place in which a least one of the parts experience deep discomfort. We have an experienced and impartial consultant contracted, who will be briefed later this week and then start interviewing. Her report will determine if there will be consequences, and what preventive measures need to be taken.

In the meanwhile, I have asked that the Marie Curie project implementation be continued, and that in this process your worries about intellectual property rights should be taken very seriously.

Best wishes,
/Christofer
